INDICTMENT

The Grand Jury Charges:

INTRODUCTION

At all times material to this indictment:

A. DALLAS COUNTY, TEXAS

1. Dallas County, Texas was a political subdivision of the State of Texas, divided into four geographic precincts also known as "districts."
2. A five-member Commissioners Court was the primary governing body of Dallas County. The Court was composed of four Commissioners, one elected from each district, and a County Judge elected countywide.
3. The Commissioners Court presided over a variety of official matters, including awarding county contracts through a competitive bidding process, building and maintaining roads and bridges within each County district, and controlling expenditures of County funds including those that the County received from federal programs involving grants, contracts, subsidies, loans, guarantees, insurance, or other forms of federal assistance. The Commissioners Court also set the County tax rate, adopted the County budget, oversaw the administration of the County government, appointed boards and commissions, reviewed and/or approved grants and personnel actions, approved the budget of and set the tax rate for the hospital district, and exercised authority over the budget of most departments, including those headed by other elected officials.

B. DEFENDANTS

4. Defendant JOHN WILEY PRICE was an elected County Commissioner of the Dallas County Commissioners Court for District 3 in Dallas County, Texas, in the Northern District of Texas, from 1985 through the present. Price oversaw the daily operations of Road and Bridge District 3. He was also actively involved in the decision-making related to and the direction of the County's information technology (IT) systems and services, serving on the County's IT Steering Committee that met regularly to discuss current IT issues, concerns, budgeting, and potential and upcoming IT projects and needs. The IT Steering Committee also received briefings from County departments, and it shared information with and made recommendations to the Commissioners Court.

5. Each elected term, Price took an oath specific to County Commissioners and Judges, in which he swore and affirmed:

I, John Wiley Price, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will not be, directly or indirectly, interested in any contract with or claim against the County, except such contracts or claims as are expressly authorized by law and except such warrants as may issue to me as fees of office. So help me God.

6. Price also took an official oath and affirmation to faithfully execute the duties of a County Commissioner, as well as to preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States and the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas, as required by the Texas Constitution, Article 16, Section 1. Included among the state and local laws that Price promised to uphold, and those applicable to County Commissioners, was Texas Penal Code, Section 36.02(a)(1) and (3), which provided, in part, that a person commits the offense of bribery if he intentionally and knowingly offers, confers, or agrees to confer on another, or solicits, accepts, or agrees to accept from another:

- (1) any benefit as consideration for the recipient's decision, opinion, recommendation, vote, or other exercise of discretion as a public servant; or
- (3) any benefit as consideration for a violation of a duty imposed by law on a public servant.

7. Under these state laws and under his oaths of office, Price owed a duty of honest and faithful services to Dallas County, Texas and its citizens.

8. Texas Local Government Code, Chapter 159 and Texas Government Code, Chapter 572 required Price to file a financial statement under oath disclosing his financial activity that included, among other things:

- a. occupational income and rental income;
- b. interests in businesses, real property, and business entities; and
- c. gifts or things of value over $250 from anyone other than a close family member.

9. Similarly, Price was required to disclose all sources of income generated outside of county employment pursuant to Dallas County Commissioners Court Order 2011-507 and Texas Local Government Code, Chapter 159.

10. Defendant KATHY LOUISE NEALY was a local lobbyist who did business under both a sole proprietorship, Kathy L. Nealy & Associates (KLNA), and a Texas corporation, KNI, Inc. (KNI). Nealy operated both companies from an office as well as her home in Dallas County, Texas, in the Northern District of Texas. Nealy was also registered with the City of Dallas as a lobbyist.

11. Nealy advertised her services to include “political consulting” and “business consulting” for clients such as “business tycoons” and local politicians, including Price for each of his campaigns for County Commissioner. As part of her campaign work for Price, Nealy organized and hosted fundraisers at an art gallery, Business M (a business known to the Grand Jury). Nealy promised KLNA clients “access to contacts” necessary to “get the job done.”

12. Among Nealy's business clients were vendors seeking contracts with Dallas County and businesses pursuing other matters on which Price voted in Commissioners Court.

13. Nealy often arranged meetings, lunches, and dinners with Price for her business clients that had matters in front of the Commissioners Court, many occurring during periods when contact with elected officials and other county employees was prohibited because the selection process for bids on county contracts was in progress at the time. Price sponsored and advocated for the interests of Nealy's clients and voted on these matters in a manner that benefited them, while accepting a stream of financial benefits from Nealy totaling approximately $950,000.

14. Defendant CHRISTIAN LLOYD CAMPBELL was a commissioned account manager with one of Nealy's business clients until approximately mid-2004. At that time, Campbell also began consulting under a sole proprietorship he created, Campbell Consulting Group (CCG). He and Nealy simultaneously contracted as "consultants" with several of the same companies that submitted bids for Dallas County contracts, often with nearly identical contract terms. To maintain favor with Price, on several occasions, Campbell successfully persuaded vendors to hire Nealy or to renew her contracts for subsequent years.

15. Defendant DAPHENY ELAINE FAIN, a Dallas County employee, worked for Price beginning in 1995, first as a secretary, later as his executive assistant, and finally, as his chief of staff, through the date of this indictment.

C. DALLAS COUNTY CONTRACT BIDDING PROCESS

16. From January 2001 through 2011, Dallas County invited vendors to bid for contracts to provide services that included IT services and equipment, digital imaging and indexing of records, inmate telephone service, collection of Justice of the Peace Court fines, and others. The process would begin when the Commissioners Court voted to issue a Request for Proposals (RFP) or a Request for Qualifications (RFQ). These requests were invitations for companies to submit their proposals and qualifications for providing a specific product or service to the County and at what cost. Once submitted, an evaluation committee (also known as a selection committee) composed of county employees would review, score, and recommend to the Commissioners Court which vendors should advance in the bidding process. The Commissioners Court would then vote on whether to accept or reject the committee's recommendations. Frequently, the Commissioners Court would vote to narrow the bidders to a smaller group of four to six companies, all of which would submit a second bid that would be their "Best and Final Offer" (BAFO). The evaluation committee would again review and score the bids and recommend a final bidder to the Commissioners Court. The Court then voted on whether the County should enter into contract negotiations with the selected bidder. After negotiations were finalized, the Court voted again to authorize the County Judge to sign the contract with the chosen vendor. If the County could not reach an agreement with the selected vendor, the County could choose to end negotiations with that vendor and begin negotiating with the next most-qualified vendor until a contract was awarded.

17. State and local law dictated certain procedures to safeguard the confidentiality of the proposals' contents, prevent disclosure to competing offerors, and keep the information secret during negotiations between potential vendors and the County. These included:

a. Texas Local Government Code, Section 262.0225, Additional Competitive Procedures, which stated, in part:

(a) In the procedure for competitive bidding under this subchapter, the commissioners court of the county shall provide all bidders with the opportunity to bid on the same items on equal terms and have bids judged according to the same standards as set forth in the specifications.

(b) A county shall receive bids or proposals under this subchapter in a fair and confidential manner.

b. Texas Local Government Code, Section 262.030, Alternative Proposal

Procedure for Insurance, High Technology Items, and Special Services, which stated, in part:

If provided in the request for proposals, proposals shall be opened so as to avoid disclosure of contents to competing offerors and kept secret during the process of negotiation. All proposals that have been submitted shall be available and open for public inspection after the contract is awarded, except for trade secrets and confidential information contained in the proposals and identified as such.

c. Chapters 74 and 86 of the Dallas County Code, which addressed confidentiality and required that all information protected by state statute concerning county business must be held in strict confidence and must not be discussed with others on or off the job except for purposes of necessary county business (Section 74-743); and all information concerning county business must be held in strict confidence and must not be discussed with others except for purposes of necessary county business (Section 86-753).

18. To enforce and comply with Texas law and Dallas County's local code and transparency policy, Dallas County included in many of its RFPs and RFQs provisions that prohibited bidders, including agents and representatives, from directly discussing or promoting their proposals with any member of the Commissioners Court or staff during the selection process, except in county-sponsored inquiries, briefings, interviews, or presentations with the Commissioners Court. This “no-contact period,” also known as a “quiet period,” was in place to ensure objectivity and fairness, to keep bidder information confidential, and to avoid improper or undue influence on the competitive bidding process.

19. Additionally, the RFPs and RFQs included conflict-of-interest provisions that prohibited County Commissioners and County employees from having “any financial interest, direct or indirect, in any contract with the County” and from being “financially interested, directly or indirectly, in the sale to the County of any land, materials, supplies, or services,” except on behalf of the County as an official or employee.

D. FOREIGN TRADE ZONE DESIGNATION PROCESS

20. In or about 2005, various property owners in Price’s district became interested in developing an area that would accommodate companies involved in international trade through importing, re-exporting, and/or assembling foreign goods. A useful amenity for such businesses was to have the property designated as a foreign trade zone (FTZ), an area physically located within the United States but considered outside U.S. Customs territory. FTZs were designed to create jobs in the local FTZ area rather than off-shore. Businesses located within an FTZ received economic benefits that included (a) not having to pay duties on imported merchandise until it left the FTZ and entered the U.S. market; (b) not having to pay any duties if the imported merchandise was re-exported; (c) paying a lower tariff on unfinished or unassembled items later incorporated into a final product; and (d) not having to pay local property taxes on inventory that was imported or that was to be exported.

21. The Federal Foreign Trade Zones Board (FTZB), an interagency board consisting of the U.S. Secretary of Commerce and the U.S. Secretary of the Treasury, held the authority to grant requests for FTZ designation. To obtain FTZB approval for property in Dallas County, an application had to be submitted to the Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport Board, which held the entitlement FTZ grant in the North Texas area and was the agency responsible for reviewing and approving such applications before presenting them to the FTZB for its approval.

22. Among other things, the application had to identify the particular properties for which FTZ status was sought. The properties were not required to be adjacent to one another, but were expected to be in the same general geographical area with common attributes. In many cases, before an application was finalized, a public hearing was held or other public notice was issued to advertise the development of the application, to determine the interest of other area property owners or parties in joining the application, and to gauge the support of elected officials and potentially affected businesses in the area.

23. In addition to a catalog of properties and the proposed zone configuration, the application also had to include consent letters from each potentially-impacted local taxing authority – including cities, counties, and school districts – expressing support for the FTZ designation as to each proposed property. For FTZ applications related to land in Dallas County, the Commissioners Court voted to grant or withhold consent for the proposed FTZ on behalf of Dallas County as a taxing authority. After the FTZB granted final approval for a particular FTZ, businesses located in that zone were able to “activate” their facilities with U.S. Customs to take advantage of the FTZ status.

Count One
Conspiracy to Commit Bribery Concerning a Local Government Receiving Federal Benefits (Violation of 18 U.S.C. § 371 (18 U.S.C. § 666(a)(1)(B) and (a)(2))

24. The allegations set forth in paragraphs one through twenty-three of this indictment are realleged and incorporated as if fully set forth herein.

25. Dallas County was a local government that received benefits in excess of $10,000 in each of the consecutive fiscal one-year periods beginning October 1, 2000 and continuing through October 1, 2010, under a federal program involving a grant, contract, subsidy, loan, guarantee, insurance, and other form of federal assistance.

26. As the Dallas County Commissioner for District 3, Price was an agent of Dallas County, Texas.

The Conspiracy and Its Objects

27. Beginning in or about January 2001 and continuing through on or about June 27, 2011, in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas, John Wiley Price, Kathy Louise Nealy, and Christian Lloyd Campbell, the defendants, together with others known and unknown to the Grand Jury, did knowingly combine, conspire, confederate, and agree together and with each other to give and receive corrupt payments in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 666(a)(1)(B) and 666(a)(2).

28. It was a part and an object of the conspiracy that Price would and did corruptly solicit and demand for the benefit of any person, and accept and agree to accept things of value through a stream of financial benefits, directly and indirectly, from Nealy and Campbell and others known and unknown to the Grand Jury, intending to be influenced and rewarded in connection with any Dallas County business, transaction, and series of transactions involving anything of value of $5,000 or more, as specific opportunities arose, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 666(a)(1)(B).

29. It was also a part and object of the conspiracy that Nealy and Campbell and others known and unknown to the Grand Jury would and did corruptly give, offer, and agree to give things of value through a stream of financial benefits, directly and indirectly, to Price with the intent to influence and reward Price in connection with any Dallas County business, transaction, and series of transactions involving anything of value of $5,000 or more, as specific opportunities arose, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 666(a)(2).

30. It was also a part and object of the conspiracy for Price, Nealy, Campbell, and others known and unknown to the Grand Jury to unjustly enrich themselves as well as to furnish funds to Nealy to continue funneling things of value through a stream of benefits to Price.

Manner and Means of the Conspiracy

To achieve unlawful objects of the conspiracy, Price, Nealy, and Campbell used the following manner and means, among others:

31. During a period that included the years beginning in or about 2001 to in or about June 2011, Nealy obtained lobbying or consulting agreements with businesses seeking contracts with Dallas County or that had other business matters in Dallas County on which the Commissioners Court voted. These businesses knew that Nealy had access to and influence with Price. At some point in the process, these businesses would hire Nealy, and through Nealy, they would obtain inside information about competitors' bids and other strategically helpful information, which they used to pursue and obtain lucrative contracts with Dallas County. These businesses often continued to pay Nealy for the duration of the businesses' dealings in Dallas County, so that, in exchange, Price would continue to take beneficial actions on their behalf in his capacity as a County Commissioner, including providing non-public internal Dallas County memos, emails, and discussions about issues that arose during the performance of such contracts; advocating on their behalf to the Commissioners Court, to committees on which Price served including the IT Steering Committee, to the County's Purchasing Department, and to others; approving additional necessary funding on their contracts; providing information as to contemplated RFPs or contract renegotiations under consideration by Dallas County; and refraining from voting in a negative manner or otherwise taking positions on issues that would negatively impact the businesses' interests.

32. Campbell often contracted as a consultant with several of the same companies as Nealy, often with nearly identical contract terms. Together with Price, Campbell facilitated Nealy's continued employment with these businesses by promoting her to them and compelling the renewal of her contracts. Campbell also ensured that Nealy's monthly fees were paid, paying her out of his own compensation when necessary, and he sometimes wrote status reports for Nealy so that she could insert the information into her own invoices and ostensibly appear to be providing all of the services called for in her contracts.

A. CORRUPT PAYMENTS AND BENEFITS TO PRICE

33. While earning income from her lobbying agreements with such vendors and companies, Nealy provided a stream of financial benefits to Price in the form of money, cars, and land, totaling approximately $950,000.

Money

a. Nealy paid Price approximately $447,217 in the form of checks, cash, and transfers from Nealy's bank accounts to Price's bank accounts.

Cars

b. Nealy also provided to Price the full use of a new Chevrolet Avalanche approximately every four years and a BMW 645Ci convertible, which Nealy titled and insured in her name and on which she made monthly car payments and insurance premium payments, all totaling approximately $191,130.

Land

c. Nealy secretly funneled approximately $198,284 to Price through four purchases of real property for Price, with Nealy serving as a straw purchaser. Nealy paid for the properties' purchase, monthly mortgage payments, property taxes, insurance, and repairs. The properties included a parcel of land referred to as the "Canton" property in Van Zandt County, and three adjacent lots located on South Lancaster Road in Dallas

(2, 8, and 0 S. Lancaster Road, the locations of which are known to the Grand Jury).

Rental income

d. Nealy provided Price rent payments totaling approximately $113,600 from a tenant occupying a building at one of the Lancaster Road properties and operating as Business T (a business known to the Grand Jury).

34. Price received the following concealed financial benefits from Nealy:

Date	Financial Benefit to Price	Approximate Amount
Calendar year 2001 (beginning late 2001)	Money paid to Price by Nealy	$11,500
Calendar year 2002	Money paid to Price by Nealy	$111,320

2001 to June 27, 2011	Total stream of financial benefits provided to Price:	$950,231

35. These payments and benefits described in paragraphs 33 and 34 were made in furtherance of the conspiracy and to achieve its objects, and to influence and reward Price to take action or refrain from taking negative action, as specific opportunities arose, to benefit Nealy's and Campbell's clients in connection with their pursuit of Dallas County contracts or other matters voted upon by the Dallas County Commissioners, each of which was valued at $5,000 or more.

Concealment

36. To conceal the fact that Price was the intended recipient of this continuous stream of bribe payments, as well as the high number of checks and large quantity of money Nealy provided to him, Nealy would transfer money from her accounts to Price's accounts and write checks payable (a) to financial institutions at which Price held accounts; (b) to herself, which Nealy then endorsed and gave to Price, sometimes with "salary" written in the memo line; and (c) directly to Price, with various notations in the memo line in an effort to conceal the true illegal purpose of such payments.

37. Nealy also paid Price by endorsing over to Price third party checks payable to herself or KLNA, which Price cashed or deposited in his own accounts.

38. Nealy wrote such checks from nine different business, personal, and investment accounts that Nealy opened for herself, KLNA, and KNI in an effort to conceal the volume and dollar value of the checks she provided to Price.

B. BENEFITS TO OTHER PERSONS CORRUPTLY SOLICITED AND DEMANDED BY PRICE

39. In addition to the above-described financial benefits for himself, Price corruptly solicited and demanded a series of benefits for other persons, with the intent to be influenced and rewarded in connection with any Dallas County business, transaction, and series of transactions involving anything of value of $5,000 or more, as specific opportunities arose. These benefits included:

a. having vendors enter into or renew consulting agreements with Nealy so that Nealy would (i) personally benefit from the compensation provided under the contracts and (ii) have the means to continue funneling a stream of financial benefits and other things of value to Price;

b. hiring and promoting certain individuals known to the Grand Jury, including C.K., the daughter of a Texas politician and close friend of Price, and H.T., who, while employed by a Nealy business client, championed the renewal of Nealy's contract and covertly increased Campbell's pay so Campbell could pay Nealy during an RFP selection period; and

c. granting particular minority subcontractors specified by Price a certain percentage of the bids submitted for contracts in Dallas County and other jurisdictions, including Business O and Business Q (businesses known to the Grand Jury).

C. PRICE'S FAVORABLE OFFICIAL ACTIONS

40. In furtherance of the conspiracy and to effect its objects, Price, while he was receiving this stream of benefits, took or agreed to take a series of favorable actions or to refrain from taking negative actions, as specific opportunities arose, concerning matters that clients of Nealy and Campbell had before the Dallas County Commissioners Court, including, among others:

a. On multiple occasions, Price leaked to Nealy and Campbell confidential information related to specific RFPs that was contained in bidders' materials, internal Dallas County memoranda, and other documents concerning details of bidders' pricing, minority subcontractor participation, bid-evaluation scoring and other results, and Dallas County personnel and committee recommendations.

b. Price leaked internal Dallas County documents and information to Nealy and Campbell about potential Dallas County projects prior to the County's issuing publicly available RFPs, to provide Nealy's clients a strategic advantage when pursuing Dallas County opportunities.

c. During the no-contact period of the bidding process, Price met with or otherwise communicated with Nealy, Campbell, and their clients that had submitted proposals in response to Dallas County RFPs.

d. In briefings, committee meetings, discussions with other Commissioners, and Commissioners Court sessions, Price advocated and voted in favor of or against actions in a manner that benefited Nealy's and Campbell's clients, including, among others, whether to: (i) advance Nealy's and/or Campbell's clients forward in the vendor selection process; (ii) award Dallas County contracts to Nealy's and/or Campbell's clients; (iii) authorize extensions, modifications, renegotiations, or additional funding of existing contracts with Nealy's and Campbell's clients; and (iv) consent to or delay FTZ designations for land developments located in Price's district.

41. Price acted favorably on behalf of, or refrained from opposing, the following businesses represented by Nealy and Campbell, among others:

Business S

42. Business S, an IT Services company known to the Grand Jury, conducted interstate and international business, including in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas.

43. From approximately 2001 to 2004, Business S pursued contracts with Dallas County related to IT services. Among the IT contracts that Business S pursued was the IT Outsourcing RFP No. 2002-011-1007. The County issued the RFP in October 2001 on Price's motion, seeking a vendor to provide comprehensive IT services for all Dallas County offices, including data management, network management, telecommunications services, help-desk service, disaster recovery, and equipment maintenance.

44. Business S, one of five responding vendors, submitted its bid on December 17, 2001. Campbell was employed by Business S as an account manager assigned to handle Dallas County matters at the time. After submitting a bid, Business S retained Nealy for her access to and influence with Price to persuade him to sponsor Business S in the selection process and to provide information helpful in pursuing the contract. Price made several motions in Commissioners Court that advanced Business S through the selection process, and he voted to award it the IT Outsourcing RFP. Business S held the contract until approximately mid-2004, when it sold most of its IT services assets to Business A (a company known to the Grand Jury).

45. Nealy initially agreed to assist Business S in advancing past the first Commissioners Court vote to decide which competing vendors would proceed forward in the RFP process. For this assistance, she charged Business S $60,000, paid in eight $7,500 installments. After Business S advanced to the next RFP stage, it again hired Nealy, paying her $5,000 per month plus a “success” fee if Dallas County awarded it the IT Outsourcing contract. Thereafter, through approximately 2004, Business S renewed or extended new contracts to Nealy for providing “direct communication to appropriate decision makers” including “elected officials and staff”; providing “timely and relevant information [to Business S] regarding critical success factors”; and assisting Business S in its efforts to be “short-listed” and/or awarded future contracts, including the County’s potential Oracle upgrade and IT outsourcing for Parkland Hospital, under the County’s consideration at that time. Nealy also promised to “leverage established contacts at Dallas County to assure that [Business S] enjoys an excellent relationship throughout current contracts [sic] primary term.” Business S paid Nealy a total of approximately $258,000 under her consulting agreements through 2004.

46. Price, having accepted and agreed to accept the stream of financial benefits from Nealy described in paragraphs 33 and 34, took actions as specific opportunities arose that advanced Business S’s interests, including:

a. Price made a motion and voted in favor of advancing Business S forward in the IT Outsourcing RFP process in February 2002, which allowed Business S to submit a presentation to the Commissioners Court and a BAFO for the contract.

b. Price made a motion and voted in favor of selecting Business S as the preferred IT Outsourcing vendor with whom to begin contract negotiations in late April 2002.

c. Price made a motion and voted in favor of approving the IT Services Master Agreement and fourteen Service Level Agreements between Dallas County and Business S in May 2002. The combined agreement was a five-year contract worth approximately $40 million, with the option of two 1-year extensions.

d. Price signed a recommendation letter for Business S in January 2003, praising the company's work in Dallas County, when Business S was pursuing public sector contracts in Florida and elsewhere.

e. Price seconded a motion and voted to approve Business S to perform an Oracle upgrade assessment for the County in June 2003, at a cost of approximately $200,000.

47. While Price publicly advocated for and sponsored Business S in the above-described manner, Price, Nealy, and Campbell conducted secret, concealed transactions to advance Business S's interests and to unlawfully enrich themselves and others known to the Grand Jury, conduct they hid and attempted to hide from Dallas County, RFP selection committee members, the IT Steering Committee, members and employees of the Commissioners Court, competing vendors, and Dallas County citizens. These transactions included the following acts, among others:

- a. Nealy paid Price approximately $218,000 in more than 70 separate financial transactions.
- b. Price accepted from Nealy the new 2002 Avalanche and 2005 BMW described in paragraphs 33 and 34 for his use and control, while Nealy made car payments totaling approximately $18,000 during the span of her Business S contracts.
- c. Nealy spent approximately $89,000 for the purchases of and monthly loan payments for the Canton and Lancaster Road properties for Price, as described in paragraphs 33 and 34.
- d. Price, directly and through Campbell, forced Business S to renew Nealy's expired March 2003 contract by (i) arranging meetings with Business S managers, (ii) writing letters to Business S senior executives using veiled language, including one in which he referenced a "deviation on ... promises made in the outset of this venture," and (iii) emailing upper management to address this concern.
- e. At Price's insistence, and with pressure from Nealy and Campbell, in early May 2003, Business S hired C.K., an individual whom Campbell noted in an email was the daughter of a certain politician and "close personal friend of Commissioner Price."
- f. Price, through Nealy and Campbell, pressured Business S to award subcontractor agreements to specific minority companies identified by Price, including Business Q, for contracts Business S sought in other jurisdictions unrelated to Dallas County.

g. Price leaked to Nealy internal Dallas County documents about the County's IT projects and needs, budget information, and recommendations about the County's potential courts-management systems project and others that Business S was pursuing during the span of its consulting contracts with Nealy.

h. Nealy's payments to Price included money transfers or cash withdrawals from Nealy's accounts deposited into Price's accounts, Nealy's split-deposits of third-party checks between her accounts and Price's, and checks from Nealy that Price cashed in exchange for stacks of $100 bills. Nealy's stream of payments to Price included transactions during the IT Outsourcing RFP selection period, such as, for example:

(1) One month before Price moved to advance Business S forward in the IT Outsourcing RFP process, Nealy paid Price $3,000 by transferring funds from her KLNA business account into Price's account at City Bank in Forney, Texas, where she and Price both held accounts.

(2) Nealy paid Price another $5,000 in the month following this vote.

(3) The day before Business S's presentation to the Commissioners Court, Nealy paid Price $2,500.

(4) One week after the presentation, Nealy paid Price an additional $5,000 in cashiers checks Nealy bought from City Bank.

(5) Three days before Business S submitted its BAFO, Nealy paid Price $4,500 by directing City Bank to split-deposit a $7,000 third-party check payable to her company, KLNA, as follows: $4,500 into an account Price held in a nominee name (of a family member) over which he had sole control, $1,000 into Nealy's personal account, and $1,500 in cash.

(6) Four days before Price made a motion in Commissioners Court to select Business S as the preferred IT Outsourcing vendor and begin contract negotiations, Nealy paid Price $10,000 by writing two separate, sequentially-numbered $5,000 checks to Price from her KLNA business account, dated the same day.

(7) On the same day that Price made a motion in Commissioners Court to approve the IT Services Master Agreement and fourteen Service Level Agreements between Dallas County and Business S, Nealy paid Price $2,500 by transferring the funds from her KLNA account to Price's nominee account at City Bank.

Business A

48. Business A was an IT services company that conducted interstate and international business, including in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas.

49. In mid-December 2003, Business S advised Dallas County that it planned to sell most of its IT services assets to Business A and that the current president of that division of Business S and all personnel supporting the IT Outsourcing contract would be retained by Business A. In June 2004, on Price's motion, Dallas County consented to this change and amended its contract to substitute Business A. Business A provided services to Dallas County until the conclusion of its contract in approximately October 2007.

50. Upper management that transitioned from Business S to Business A adopted Nealy's $5,000 monthly consulting agreement previously signed with Business S. Based on Nealy's proven in-roads with Price in prior years, Business A's management continued to renew Nealy's contract with the expectation that she would provide access to and influence with Price to (a) help secure future Dallas County contracts, including a contract to upgrade Dallas County's Oracle Financials system, and (b) maintain a favorable relationship with Price concerning its existing contract with Dallas County at that time. When Business A's IT contract with Dallas County ended in approximately October 2007, Business A terminated Nealy's contract. Business A paid Nealy approximately $229,000 from June 2004 to 2007.

51. Campbell remained employed as a commissioned account manager for several months following the transition to Business A, identifying himself as Business A's point of contact in its March 2004 proposal to Dallas County for the Oracle upgrade mentioned in Nealy's contract. Then, in approximately June 2004, Campbell ended his tenure as an employee and became a consultant for Business A under an agreement similar to Nealy's, with a $7,500 monthly fee and a commission for each contract he procured. In mid-2007, Business A renewed Campbell's consulting contract with a $5,000 monthly fee and commissions.

52. Price, having accepted and agreed to accept the stream of financial benefits from Nealy described in paragraphs 33 and 34, took actions as specific opportunities arose that advanced Business A's interests, including:

a. Price made a motion and voted in favor of accepting the change of control from Business S to Business A and amending the IT Outsourcing contract to reflect Business A as the vendor in June 2004.

b. Price granted meetings with Business A management, Nealy, and Campbell concerning Business A's performance of its contracts and other issues that arose during that time.

c. Price advocated on behalf of Business A to fellow Commissioners, IT Steering Committee members, and others concerning Business A's performance of its contracts and other issues that arose during that time.

53. While Price publicly advocated for and sponsored Business A in the above-described manner, Price, Nealy, and Campbell conducted secret, concealed transactions to advance Business A's interests and to unlawfully enrich themselves and others known to the Grand Jury, conduct they hid and attempted to hide from Dallas County, RFP selection committee members, the IT Steering Committee, members and employees of the Commissioners Court, competing vendors, and Dallas County citizens. These transactions included the following acts, among others:

a. During the negotiations between the County and Business A regarding the contract terms under which Business A would assume Business S's IT Outsourcing contract, Nealy and Price shared and discussed internal County information and Business A's responses to such information.

b. Price met with Nealy privately to share inside Dallas County information about Business A and had staff members fax and email internal Dallas County documents summarizing discussions about Business A's performance with the County.

c. Nealy paid Price on or near dates on which her calendar reflected meetings with Price concerning Business A.

d. Approximately six days before a November 2004 Dallas County meeting attended by Price to discuss issues related to Business A's performance, Nealy purchased a 2005 BMW that she provided to Price for his use.

e. Price also accepted from Nealy the 2007 Avalanche described in paragraphs 33 and 34 for his use and control, while Nealy made car payments totaling approximately $81,000 during the span of her Business A contracts.

f. Nealy spent approximately $148,000 on the four properties she bought for Price, described in paragraphs 33 and 34.

g. Throughout the period of Nealy's contracts with Business A, Nealy paid Price approximately $153,000 in more than 45 separate financial transactions, including checks from Nealy that Price deposited into his nominee account at City Bank or cashed in exchange for stacks of $100 bills, and checks that Nealy wrote to herself or to Dallas Telco and gave to Price to cash or deposit.

Business B

54. Business B was a company known to the Grand Jury that conducted interstate business, including in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas.

55. During a period that included the years 2004 through 2009, Business B pursued contracts with Dallas County related to, among other things, digitizing County records and countywide cashiering services. One such contract was the Dallas County Recording, Indexing, and Imaging RFP No. 2004-064-1485, issued by the County in or about March 2004, seeking a vendor to digitize Dallas County Clerk's Office records (hereinafter, DCRIIS RFP). Bids were due from vendors on April 19, 2004.

56. The DCRIIS RFP contained a "no-contact" provision in effect during the selection process that prohibited firms from contacting County staff and prohibited "firms and their employees of related companies, including paid or unpaid personnel acting on their behalf," from contacting or participating in "any type of contact outside the County offices with County employees, including elected officials." To further safeguard the confidentiality of bidders' information, the RFP also relayed that "all Proposal Information, including detailed price and cost information, shall be held in confidence until the contract is awarded and/or cancelled."

57. Initially, Nealy teamed with Business B as a subcontractor for the DCRIIS RFP. Nealy was to provide "an outreach and education program" that involved providing marketing materials to the public and training to users of the indexing and imaging system. After submitting its initial proposal to the County, Business B negotiated with Nealy as to how much it would pay her for her piece of the contract, at one point offering her $50,000.

58. Campbell signed a consulting agreement with Business B shortly before the company submitted its proposal to Dallas County. Mirroring Nealy's 2004 contract with Business S, Campbell promised to "leverage established relationships at Dallas County" to help Business B win the DCRIIS contract, in exchange for $5,000 monthly payments to Campbell and a $25,000 success fee.

59. On Price's motion, Business B advanced to the second round of the RFP process with three other vendors in late May 2004. Business B presented a demonstration of its proposed system to the selection committee the following month. After vendor presentations, however, the selection committee recommended eliminating Business B and a second bidder from further consideration, noting in a confidential memo to the Commissioners Court that Business B's bid included a costly marketing proposal.

60. Price convinced fellow Commissioners to reject the DCRIIS selection committee's recommendation. On Price's motion, the Commissioners Court voted to keep Business B in the selection process and move forward with three other vendors for the DCRIIS RFP, thereby deviating from the typical RFP process.

61. Business B ultimately submitted the lowest BAFO without the marketing piece of its proposal and without Nealy as a subcontractor, due to the County's comments that the RFP did not call for a marketing program. Business B was selected as the DCRIIS RFP finalist in late January 2005. It signed a five-year contract with the County, worth approximately $3.2 million, in late March 2005, which it held until in or about 2009.

62. After eliminating Nealy as a subcontractor in its BAFO, Business B hired her as a lobbyist at the local government level for a $4,000 monthly fee and additionally paid her approximately $50,000 to market its services. It also renewed Campbell's consulting contract. The company continued to retain Nealy until 2008, but ended Campbell's contract in approximately February 2007. In internal discussions regarding whether to renew Nealy's yearly contract, one Business B manager advocated in favor of it, noting that Nealy "is very close to the strongest Commissioner, Commissioner Price" and very close to a partner in Business L, another Dallas County vendor (known to the Grand Jury) with which Business B was seeking to do business.

63. In total, Nealy was paid approximately $197,000 from Business B.

64. Price, having accepted and agreed to accept the stream of financial benefits from Nealy described in paragraphs 33 and 34, took actions as specific opportunities arose that advanced Business B's interests, including:

a. Price made a motion and voted in favor of advancing Business B forward to the second step of the DCRIIS RFP process involving product demonstration in May 2004.

b. Price successfully advocated for Business B to remain in the selection process, convinced fellow County Commissioners to reject the DCRIIS selection committee's recommendation to eliminate Business B from further consideration, made a motion in Commissioners Court to that effect, and voted in favor of advancing Business B in the selection process in August 2004.

c. Price voted to select Business B as the finalist for the DCRIIS RFP and to begin contract negotiations with Business B in January 2005.

d. Price voted to advance Business B to the next phase of the Countywide Receipting System RFP – another Dallas County RFP that Business B pursued, estimated to be worth approximately $3.4 million – in January 2005.

e. Price voted to authorize the County Judge to sign a five-year agreement with Business B, worth approximately $3.2 million, for the DCRIIS project in March 2005.

f. Price voted to approve an amendment to Business B's DCRIIS contract, providing for additional services related to the DCRIIS project at an added cost of approximately $238,000, in November 2007.

65. While Price publicly advocated for and sponsored Business B in the above-described manner, Price, Nealy, and Campbell conducted secret, concealed transactions to advance Business B's interests and to unlawfully enrich themselves and others known to the Grand Jury, conduct they hid and attempted to hide from Dallas County, RFP selection committee members, the IT Steering Committee, members and employees of the Commissioners Court, competing vendors, and Dallas County citizens. These transactions included the following acts, among others:

a. Nealy obtained the DCRIIS selection committee's internal memo to the Commissioners Court recommending eliminating Business B from the process, which was marked "CONFIDENTIAL – Not for distribution" and contained the committee's rationale for its recommendation, discussions about each vendor, the dollar amounts of each bid, and other confidential information. At that time, Business B's bid was the highest of the four competing vendors, but it ultimately submitted the lowest final offer.

b. After Price's August 2004 success in keeping Business B in the DCRIIS RFP process, Campbell funneled $7,500 to Nealy by amending his contract with Business B for two months so that he would be paid an additional $5,000 each month on top of his original $5,000 compensation, which he then used to pay Nealy. Upon depositing Campbell's $7,500 into her business account, Nealy immediately paid Price $2,500.

c. Nealy and Price contacted each other multiple times about Business B during the no-contact period of the DCRIIS RFP process.

d. Nealy obtained a second internal Dallas County memo marked "Confidential – Not for Distribution," issued by the DCRIIS selection committee to the Commissioners Court after each vendor submitted its BAFO. Among other information, the memo contained the committee's scoring summary of the four finalists' bids and each of their BAFO pricing.

e. During the time of the Countywide Receipting System RFP, Price faxed to Nealy an internal memo in March 2005 that the County's purchasing agent had provided to the IT Steering Committee, relaying that the evaluation committee recommended not advancing Business B in the RFP process. Price's fax also included the evaluation committee's scores of each competing vendor and the dollar figures of their bids.

f. Price contacted Business B to request that H.T. be promoted, after H.T. persuaded Business B to renew Nealy's contract in 2006 because of Nealy's close association with Price and her close ties with a partner of Business L.

g. Price accepted from Nealy the new 2005 BMW and the new 2007 Avalanche described in paragraphs 33 and 34 for his use and control, while Nealy made car payments totaling approximately $117,000 during the span of her Business B contracts.

h. Nealy spent approximately $170,000 on the four properties she bought for Price, described in paragraphs 33 and 34.

i. Throughout the span of Nealy's contracts with Business B, Nealy paid Price approximately $176,000 in over 60 separate financial transactions, many of which were checks from Nealy that Price deposited into his nominee account at City Bank or cashed in exchange for stacks of $100 bills, and checks that Nealy wrote to herself or to Dallas Telco and gave to Price to cash or deposit. Nealy's stream of payments to Price included transactions during the DCRIS selection period, such as, for example:

- (1) The day after Price moved to advance Business B forward in the DCRIS RFP process in May 2004, Nealy paid Price $3,500.

(2) The day before Nealy was scheduled to meet with Price and Campbell regarding Business B in June 2004, during the DCRIS RFP no-contact period, Nealy paid Price $2,000.

(3) The day before Price voted to authorize the County Judge to sign the approximately $3.2 million DCRIS contract with Business B in March 2005, Nealy paid Price $1,000.

Businesses V and U

66. Business V was an IT services company known to the Grand Jury that conducted interstate business, including in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas.

67. Business U was an IT services company known to the Grand Jury that conducted interstate business, including in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas.

68. During a period that included the years 2006 to 2010, Business V partnered with various vendors, including Business U, that submitted bids for IT contracts in Dallas County. In or about early November 2006, Business V signed a consulting contract with Nealy to “make introductions,” “attend meetings,” and “lobby on behalf of [Business V]” in Dallas County and other local venues, in exchange for a $2,000 monthly fee and commissions on new business generated. Nealy lobbied on behalf of Business V under yearly-renewed contracts until in or about January 2010. She was paid approximately $159,000 by Business V throughout that period.

69. Business V utilized Nealy for access to and information from Price concerning several RFPs, including:

a. the IT Help Desk Provider RFQ No. 2007-071-2776, issued by Dallas County in March 2007, for which Business V partnered as a subcontractor with Business U and for which a three-year contract worth at least $2 million was awarded to another vendor in September 2007;

b. the County's Desktop Technical Support RFP No. 2007-117-3023, issued in July 2007, for which Business V also partnered as a subcontractor with Business U and for which a five-year contract worth approximately $8.5 million was awarded in late November 2007 to another vendor, Business C (a company known to the Grand Jury), over Price's objections; and

c. the Inmate Phone System RFQ No. 2007-082-2822 to provide inmate phone services for the Dallas County jail facilities, issued in April 2007, for which a five-year contract, estimated to generate approximately $6 million in commissions for the County, was awarded in June 2008 to Business U.

70. All three RFP/RFQs contained identical "no-contact" provisions in effect throughout the selection process, which stated:

Upon release of the proposal, firms and their employees of related companies as well as paid or unpaid personnel acting on their behalf shall not contact or participate in any type of contact with County employees, including elected officials. Such contact may result in the vendor being disqualified. All contact must be coordinated through [the] Purchasing Supervisor, for this procurement.

71. Additionally, the RFP/RFQs mandated that, in accordance with State of Texas guidelines, to obtain the best value for the County through a negotiated procurement process, “[a]ll information will be kept confidential until a contract is formally executed or the [RFP/RFQ] is cancelled.”

72. Price, having accepted and agreed to accept the stream of financial benefits from Nealy described in paragraphs 33 and 34, took actions as specific opportunities arose that advanced Business V's and Business U's interests, including:

a. Price voted in favor of advancing Business U and Business C as finalists in the Desktop Technical Support RFP in September 2007.

b. Price voted “NO!” against authorizing contract negotiations with Business C (Business U's competitor) as the selected vendor for the Desktop Technical Support RFP in November 2007.

c. Price voted “NO!” against awarding the Desktop Technical Support RFP to Business C and against authorizing the County Judge to sign a contract with Business C in late November 2007.

d. Price voted in favor of advancing Business U and three others in the Inmate Phone System RFQ process in July 2007.

e. Price seconded a motion and voted in favor of selecting Business U as the vendor for the Inmate Phone System RFQ and entering into contract negotiations with Business U in March 2008.

f. Price made a motion and voted to award the Inmate Phone System RFQ to Business U and to authorize the execution of a five-year contract estimated to generate approximately $6 million in commissions for the County in June 2008.

73. While Price publicly advocated for and sponsored Businesses V and U in the above-described manner, Price and Nealy conducted secret, concealed transactions to advance Business V's and Business U's interests and to unlawfully enrich themselves and others known to the Grand Jury, conduct they hid and attempted to hide from Dallas County, RFP selection committee members, the IT Steering Committee, members and employees of the Commissioners Court, competing vendors, and Dallas County citizens. These transactions included the following acts, among others:

a. During the no-contact period of the Desktop Technical Support RFP, Price forwarded to Nealy internal Dallas County emails from the County's purchasing agent and the County's chief information officer (CIO) discussing Business U's bid for that RFP.

b. Also during the no-contact period of the Desktop Technical Support RFP, Nealy obtained a confidential, internal Dallas County memo from the County's purchasing agent to the Commissioners Court in late October 2007 entitled, "Additional Information on Award Recommendation," that compared the BAFOs of Business U and Business C, the two finalists for the RFP, including pricing, negotiation points, and minority subcontractor participation for each business.

c. The day after the date of the confidential memo, an executive with Business U emailed Nealy a letter from Business U to Price, responding point-by-point to the confidential, internal Award Recommendation memo that Nealy obtained. Price had a staff member email Business U's letter to the County's CIO.

d. Price then forwarded to Nealy the County CIO's and County purchasing agent's confidential analysis of and response to Business U's letter to Price.

e. Price continued to leak confidential and internal information to Nealy during the no-contact period of the Desktop Technical Support RFP by forwarding to Nealy internal County emails from the County's purchasing agent with financial information about Business C that Price had requested in the Commissioners Court session the prior week.

f. Two days before the final Commissioners Court vote on the Desktop Technical Support RFP, while the no-contact period was still in effect, Price leaked sensitive, inside information to Nealy about Business C by forwarding to Nealy an internal County email chain between the County's CIO and the County's purchasing director discussing potential negotiation points and revisions to the County's proposed contract with Business C. In the email chain, a County employee noted that "[a]t Commissioner Price's request I have added him to the distribution of this response." The email Price forwarded to Nealy also included a copy of the proposed contract with Business C.

g. The next day, Nealy forwarded to Business V the confidential email chain that Price sent to Nealy, including the proposed Desktop Technical Support contract with Business C.

h. During the no-contact period of the Inmate Phone System RFQ, Price agreed to meet with Nealy and representatives from Business U on multiple occasions, including during the period when the County was engaged in ongoing negotiations with Business U for that contract.

i. Price continued to drive the 2005 BMW, the new 2007 Avalanche, and eventually the new 2010 Avalanche from Nealy described in paragraphs 33 and 34 for his use and control, while Nealy made car payments totaling approximately $92,000 during the span of her Business V contracts.

j. Nealy spent approximately $83,000 on the four properties she bought for Price, described in paragraphs 33 and 34.

k. Throughout the span of Nealy's contracts with Business V, Nealy paid Price approximately $122,000 in over 55 separate financial transactions, many of which were checks Nealy wrote to Dallas Telco that Price deposited or cashed in exchange for stacks of $100 bills. Nealy's stream of payments to Price included transactions during the RFP/RFQ selection periods, such as, for example:

(1) The week before Price voted to advance Business U to the next stage of the Desktop Technical Support RFP, Nealy paid Price $5,000.

(2) In the month surrounding Price's leaks to Nealy of confidential information regarding the Desktop Technical Support RFP vendor proposals and contract negotiations, Nealy paid Price $5,500.

(3) In the week following Price's vote to advance Business U to the next stage of the Inmate Phone System RFQ, Nealy paid Price $2,500.

Business Q

74. Business Q was an IT services company known to the Grand Jury that conducted interstate business, including in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas.

75. During a period that included the years 2001 to 2011, Business Q pursued contracts with Dallas County related to, among other things, IT and desktop technical support services. In late August 2010, Dallas County issued Desktop Technical Support Services RFP No. 2010-090-5232, seeking a vendor to provide technical expertise to support over 5,500 Dallas County computer users.

76. As with previous RFPs, the Desktop Technical Support RFP contained a "no-contact" provision in effect throughout the selection process, which stated:

Upon release of the proposal, firms and their employees of related companies as well as paid or unpaid personnel acting on their behalf shall not contact or participate in any type of contact with County employees, including elected officials. Such contact may result in the vendor being disqualified. All contact must be coordinated through [the] Purchasing Supervisor, for this procurement.

77. Additionally, the RFP mandated that, in accordance with State of Texas guidelines, to obtain the best value for the County through a negotiated procurement process, “[a]ll information will be kept confidential until a contract is formally executed or the RFP is cancelled.”

78. Business Q submitted a bid for the RFP in late September 2010. Business C submitted a competing bid that included Nealy’s company, KNI, as a minority subcontractor to provide “staffing and management support” for the contract. Nealy was to receive approximately 30 percent of Business C’s proposed $5 million bid. During the bid evaluations, Business C was erroneously scored lower on its minority participation than the minimum necessary to move forward in the RFP process. Thus, in November 2010, Business Q and three other vendors advanced forward in the RFP process, but Business C and Nealy/KNI did not.

79. Dallas County invited Business Q and the other remaining bidders to submit a BAFO for the RFP in December 2010. Soon after, during the no-contact period of the RFP, Business Q signed an eight-day contract retaining Nealy from December 29, 2010 until January 5, 2011 – the day after its BAFO was due – to “assist [Business Q] relating to the Dallas County Request for Proposals (‘RFP’) of Desktop Support Services.” Nealy’s $10,000 retainer was to be paid up front, and she billed Business Q on the first day of her contract period.

80. In January 2011, Business C challenged its elimination from the RFP process based on minority scoring. After the County corrected the error, it permitted Business C to submit a late BAFO, which still included Nealy as a subcontractor and which edged in lower than Business Q’s revised bid. Consequently, the previously-scheduled vote to select a vendor, set for January 25, 2011, was pulled from the Commissioners Court agenda and the selection process was delayed to permit an evaluation of Business C's BAFO. Ultimately, Business Q was awarded the contract on February 22, 2011.

81. Price, having accepted and agreed to accept the stream of financial benefits from Nealy described in paragraphs 33 and 34, took actions as specific opportunities arose that advanced Business Q's and Business C's interests, including:

a. Price made a motion and voted in favor of selecting Business Q as the preferred Desktop Technical Support vendor with whom to begin contract negotiations in February 2011.

b. Price made a motion and voted in favor of approving the Desktop Technical Support contract between Dallas County and Business Q in February 2011. The agreement with Business Q was a three-year contract worth approximately $3.6 million, with the option of two one-year extensions.

82. While Price publicly advocated for and sponsored Business Q in the above-described manner, Price and Nealy conducted secret, concealed transactions to advance Business Q's and Business C's interests and to unlawfully enrich themselves and others known to the Grand Jury, conduct they hid and attempted to hide from Dallas County, RFP selection committee members, the IT Steering Committee, members and employees of the Commissioners Court, competing vendors, and Dallas County citizens. These transactions included the following acts, among others:

a. During the no-contact period of the Desktop Technical Support RFP, and before Business C submitted its joint BAFO with Nealy/KNI, Price leaked confidential information to Nealy about the four finalists for the RFP by forwarding to Nealy an email from the Commissioners Court's assistant administrator to the Commissioners that contained the selection committee's evaluation scores, the four bidders' BAFO pricing, minority subcontractor information, proposed transition times, and contract negotiation requests. Subsequently, Business C/KNI submitted one of the lowest offers.

b. On the same day that a previously-proposed Commissioners Court order to select Business Q as the Desktop Technical Support vendor was pulled from the Court's January 25, 2011 agenda, Nealy deposited a $2,500 check from Business C.

c. Price continued to drive the 2005 BMW and the new 2010 Avalanche, a vehicle Price personally took delivery of from the dealership in the months leading up to the issuance of the Desktop Technical Support RFP, while Nealy made car payments totaling approximately $5,900 during the period of the Desktop Technical Support RFP selection process.

d. Nealy spent approximately $8,800 on the four properties she bought for Price, described in paragraphs 33 and 34.

e. During the period of the Desktop Technical Support RFP process, Nealy paid Price approximately $9,525 in seven separate financial transactions. Nealy's stream of benefits to Price included transactions during the RFP selection period, such as, for example:

(1) In the month following Business C and KNI's RFP bid, Nealy paid Price $4,175.

(2) Three days after Business Q submitted its BAFO for the Desktop Technical Support RFP, Nealy paid Price $2,100.

(3) Upon receiving Business Q's $10,000 check for her eight-day consulting contract, Nealy made a car payment on the 2010 Avalanche and paid the property taxes due for 8 S. Lancaster Road and 0 S. Lancaster Road.

Business H

83. Business H, a company known to the Grand Jury, conducted interstate and international business, including in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas.

84. In or about mid-2005, Dallas County's director of planning and zoning briefed the Commissioners Court about the possibility of obtaining Foreign Trade Zone status for properties located in Wilmer, Hutchins, Dallas, and Lancaster, Texas.

85. At that time, FTZ status had been granted previously for certain property in Dallas County known as Foreign Trade Zone 39 or the Southport Foreign Trade Zone, which was within the City of Dallas near the intersection of Interstate Highway 20 and Interstate Highway 45. Interested developers sought an expansion of FTZ 39 to include their own properties located in Wilmer, Hutchins, Dallas, and Lancaster. Because of the number of properties in different cities, a single, comprehensive application was developed for these properties. The application identified the particular land for which FTZ status was sought and was required to include consent letters from each potentially-impacted local taxing authority – such as cities, counties, and school districts – expressing concurrence for the FTZ designation regarding each property.

86. The Dallas County Commissioners Court was one of the taxing authorities whose consent by vote was necessary for the FTZ expansion. Such an expansion constituted business, a transaction, or series of transactions of Dallas County involving a thing of value of $5,000 or more.

87. After several developers separately approached the DFW Airport Board (the Board) about obtaining FTZ status for specific properties, the Board contacted Dallas County to suggest that the County lead an effort to develop an application for a comprehensive zone that would include the various individual properties in these multiple cities.

88. Price agreed with the recommendation of the County's planning director in March 2006 that the County should hold a public hearing during the Commissioners Court's April 11, 2006 formal agenda to obtain input for the development of the boundaries of a possible FTZ in the Lancaster-Wilmer-Hutchins-Southeastern Dallas area and publish notice of the hearing in newspapers. The Court held the hearing as planned. By September 2006, a proposed application for several properties had been prepared for briefing to the Commissioners Court for consent and set on the DFW Airport Board agenda for approval.

89. At that point, Business H decided to seek a late addition of its own property in DeSoto, Texas to the then-completed application for FTZ designation. Business H, with Nealy already on retainer, paid Nealy until approximately March 2008 to lobby for such a result. Price assisted Business H's efforts in several ways, including delaying for several months a Commissioners Court vote to grant consent for the existing application. In or about late February 2008, approximately a year and a half after the initial application was to be considered by the Commissioners Court, the FTZB approved FTZ status for all of the properties in Dallas, Wilmer, Hutchins, and Lancaster, and Business H's property in DeSoto.

90. Price, having accepted and agreed to accept the stream of financial benefits from Nealy described in paragraphs 33 and 34, took actions as specific opportunities arose that advanced Business H's interests, including:

a. After Price met with Nealy and Business H executives in November 2006, Price pulled from the Commissioners Court agenda an item recommending the endorsement of the FTZ application as it then existed without Business H's property.

b. Price met with an attorney representing the DFW Airport Board and asked what Business H needed to do to join the then-existing FTZ application as opposed to making its own separate application.

c. Price continued to delay the Commissioners Court's discussion of the issue and the approval of the FTZ application until approximately May 2007, allowing Business H to try to obtain approvals from the appropriate taxing authorities for its own FTZ request.

d. Some of the delay between October 2006 and May 2007 was due to Business H's efforts to convince one or more Dallas City Council members to endorse Business H's property as part of the FTZ application. Price told one Councilman that if the Councilman did not endorse the inclusion of Business H's property in the existing FTZ application, Price would not approve any FTZ application.

e. Price wrote letters to the Dallas Independent School District (DISD) and the City of Dallas vouching for Business H and urging their immediate support to include Business H's DeSoto property in the pending Dallas, Wilmer, Hutchins, and Lancaster FTZ-expansion application.

f. In May 2007, the Commissioners Court considered a briefing that proposed two separate applications for FTZ status: one for Business H's property and the other for the Wilmer, Hutchins, Dallas, and Lancaster properties. Price voted "NO!" against approving the separate applications.

91. While Price publicly advocated for and sponsored Business H in the above-described manner, Price and Nealy conducted secret, concealed transactions to advance Business H's interests and to unlawfully enrich themselves and others known to the Grand Jury, conduct they hid and attempted to hide from Dallas County, members and employees of the Commissioners Court, applicants in the then-existing FTZ application for Dallas, Wilmer, Hutchins, and Lancaster properties, the DFW Airport Board, the FTZB, and Dallas County citizens. These transactions included the following acts, among others:

a. Price continued to drive the 2005 BMW and the 2007 Avalanche described in paragraphs 33 and 34, while Nealy made car payments totaling approximately $42,000 during the period that Price advocated for Business H regarding its FTZ application.

b. Nealy spent approximately $51,000 on the four properties she bought for Price, described in paragraphs 33 and 34.

c. During the span of Price's and Nealy's assistance to Business H regarding the FTZ, Nealy paid Price approximately $73,000 in over 20 separate financial transactions, many of which were checks Nealy wrote to Dallas Telco that Price deposited or cashed in exchange for stacks of $100 bills. Nealy's stream of payments to Price included the following examples:

(1) Approximately two weeks after Price's conversation with the Dallas Councilman about approving Business H's property in the FTZ application, Nealy paid Price $5,000.

(2) The day after Price voted "NO!" against the two proposed separate applications for FTZ status with Business H's property in its own application, Nealy paid Price $2,500, and she paid him another $2,500 two days later.

(3) Within the week after Price wrote letters to the DISD and the City of Dallas urging their immediate support for including Business H's DeSoto property in the pending application, Nealy paid Price $4,000.

D. CONCEALMENT OF THE CORRUPT AGREEMENT

92. Because (i) the conspiracy was ongoing, (ii) further action was required by the Dallas County Commissioners Court concerning the matters sought by Nealy's and Campbell's clients, and (iii) Price was a high-level public official at the time the corrupt stream of payments and benefits were made, it was a necessary part of the agreement to conceal the illegal payments and benefits Price received. Price, Nealy, and Campbell took steps to conceal the corrupt agreement, including the following, among others:

a. Price, Nealy, and Campbell did not disclose Price's receipt of the illegal benefits from Nealy to Dallas County, members and employees of the Commissioners Court, Dallas County citizens, and others affected or influenced by Price's actions or inactions described above such as, for example, RFP selection committee members, the IT Steering Committee, competing vendors for various RFPs, applicants for FTZ status, the DFW Airport Board, and the FTZB.

b. Price affirmatively concealed the illegal benefits he received from Nealy by filing Personal Financial Statements, signed under oath, with Dallas County for the reporting years 2001 through 2008 and 2010 that intentionally omitted the illegal payments, vehicles, and land purchases.

c. Nealy created false books and records to conceal the quantity and dollar amount of payments she made to Price.

Overt Acts

93. In furtherance of the conspiracy and to effect its objects and purposes, at least one of the conspirators committed, and caused to be committed, one of the following overt acts, among others, in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas, and elsewhere:

94. The Grand Jury realleges and incorporates by reference the acts identified in paragraphs 31 to 92 as overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy and to effect its objects and purposes.

95. On numerous occasions during the calendar years 2001 through June 27, 2011, Nealy gave Price financial benefits totaling approximately $950,000.

On or about January 15, 2011, during the no-contact period of the Desktop Technical Support RFP, and before Business C submitted its joint BAFO with Nealy/KNI, Price leaked confidential information to Nealy about the four finalists for the RFP by forwarding to Nealy an email from the Commissioners Court's assistant administrator to the Commissioners that contained the selection committee's evaluation scores, the four bidders' BAFO pricing, minority subcontractor information, proposed transition times, and contract negotiation requests. Subsequently, Business C/KNI submitted one of the lowest BAFOs.

291. On or about January 25, 2011, when a previously-proposed Commissioner Court order to select a Desktop Technical Support RFP vendor was pulled from the Court's agenda to permit an evaluation of Business C's BAFO, Nealy deposited a $2,500 check from Business C.

292. On or about February 8, 2011, Price made a motion and voted in favor of entering into contract negotiations with Business Q as the selected vendor for the Desktop Technical Support RFP.

293. On or about February 22, 2011, Price made a motion and voted in favor of awarding the Desktop Technical Support RFP to Business Q and authorizing the County Judge to execute a three-year contract worth approximately $3.6 million, with the option of two one-year extensions.

294. On or about April 22, 2011, Nealy paid Price $5,000 by endorsing check number 2552 payable to Kathy L. Nealy, issued from Nealy's KLNA "campaign" account *3080 at Bank of America.

Counts Two through Seven

Deprivation of Honest Services by Mail Fraud and Aiding and Abetting (Violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 1341, 1346, and 2)

297. The Grand Jury hereby adopts, realleges and incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in paragraphs one through twenty-three of this indictment as if fully set forth herein.

298. At all times relevant to this indictment, Dallas County, Texas and its citizens had an intangible right to the honest services of their public officials. As a public official for Dallas County, Texas, John Wiley Price, the defendant, owed a fiduciary duty to Dallas County and its citizens and was prohibited by state law from soliciting and accepting bribes as consideration for his decision, opinion, recommendation, vote, or other exercise of discretion as a public servant or for violating a duty imposed by law on him as a public servant, duties explained in paragraphs six and seven of the Introduction of this indictment.

The Scheme

299. Beginning in or about January 2001, the exact date being unknown to the Grand Jury, and continuing through on or about June 27, 2011, in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas, defendants, John Wiley Price and Kathy Louise Nealy, aided and abetted by each other and by others known and unknown to the Grand Jury, engaged in mail fraud, that is, they devised a scheme and artifice to defraud and deprive Dallas County and its citizens of their right to the honest and faithful services of Commissioner John Wiley Price through the solicitation and payment of bribes and the concealment of material information.

Purpose of the Scheme

300. The purpose of the scheme and artifice was for Price to secretly use his official position to enrich himself by soliciting and accepting payments and other things of value from Nealy in the form of a stream of financial benefits, as consideration for Price's action or inaction and influence with respect to contracts and other matters before the Dallas County Commissioners Court, as specific opportunities arose, and for Nealy to enrich herself by obtaining favorable action or inaction and influence for herself and her clients through corrupt means.

Manner and Means

301. The scheme and artifice was carried out in the following manner and means, among others: (a) Price solicited and accepted a stream of financial benefits in the form of payments and other things of value, including real estate and vehicles, from Nealy totaling more than $950,000; (b) Price provided favorable action or inaction and influence on behalf of Nealy and Nealy's clients as requested and as opportunities arose; and (c) Price and Nealy took steps to hide, conceal, and cover up this activity and the nature and scope of their dealings with one another.

302. The manner and means of the defendants' scheme and artifice are more fully described in paragraphs 31 through 92 and 95 through 296 of this indictment, which are realleged and incorporated herein by reference.

Execution of the Scheme

303. For the purpose of executing and attempting to execute the above-described scheme and artifice to defraud, defendants Price and Nealy knowingly caused matters and things to be delivered by the United States Postal Service and by private and commercial interstate carriers according to the directions thereon, on or about the dates in each count below:

Count	Date Mailed (on or about)	Contents
Two	October 2, 2009	KLNA check number 8001 in the amount of $1,558.87 issued from Nealy's KLNA account *1364 at Bank of America for a BMW monthly car payment

Count Eight
Conspiracy to Defraud the Internal Revenue Service
(Violation of 18 U.S.C. § 371)

304. The Grand Jury hereby adopts, realleges, and incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 303 of this indictment as if fully set forth herein.

305. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is an agency of the United States Department of Treasury responsible for enforcing and administering the tax laws of the United States and collecting taxes owed to the Treasury of the United States.

306. Defendants John Wiley Price, Kathy Louise Nealy, and Dapheny Elaine Fain were residents and citizens of the United States and resided in the Northern District of Texas during the time period set forth in this Indictment.

The Conspiracy and Its Objects

307. Beginning in or about October 2001, the exact date being unknown to the Grand Jury, and continuing through on or about June 27, 2011, in the Dallas Division of the Northern District of Texas, defendants, John Wiley Price, Kathy Louise Nealy, and Dapheny Elaine Fain did knowingly combine, conspire, confederate and agree with each other, and with others known and unknown to the Grand Jury, to defraud the United States for the purpose of impeding, impairing, obstructing, and defeating the lawful government functions of the Internal Revenue Service of the Treasury Department in the ascertainment, computation, assessment, and collection of the revenue: to wit, income taxes for the calendar tax years 2002 through 2009.

308. It was further a purpose and object of the conspiracy to unlawfully conceal and disguise approximately $1,150,000 in bribes and other taxable income that Price received from several sources, including Fain, Male Man Sales d/b/a MMS, Nealy, Kathy L. Nealy and Associates, KNI, Inc., Business M, and Business T.

Manner and Means of the Conspiracy

309. The conspirators used the following manner and means, among others, to carry out the objectives of the conspiracy:

A. MALE MAN SALES (MMS)

310. Male Man Sales, d/b/a MMS Company (MMS), was an unincorporated proprietorship with its principal office located in Dallas County, in the Northern District of Texas. Fain filed an assumed name certificate for MMS in Dallas County in 2003, identifying the business as a proprietorship. MMS originally sold novelty items and clothing. In 2005, Fain renamed Male Man Sales the "MMS Company" at the request of Business X (a company known to the Grand Jury) when Male Man began filling orders for Business X and others for logo-stamped items, appliances, electronics, and other goods.

311. Price co-owned and/or operated MMS with Fain and had use of MMS company credit cards. He received approximately $133,925 from MMS but reported none of this income on his tax returns. Price and Fain concealed Price's receipt of this income by several means, including: (1) Fain endorsed and diverted third-party checks to Price; (2) Price or Fain split the deposits of the third-party checks between an MMS account and one of Price's personal accounts; and (3) Price took cash back from deposits into MMS accounts.

B. BRIBERY INCOME

312. As described in the Introduction and Counts 1 through 7 of this indictment, realleged and incorporated herein by reference, Nealy paid Price a stream of financial benefits totaling approximately $950,000 that included money, cars, and land. This stream of benefits from Nealy to Price also included more than $90,000 in rental income from Business T, a tenant located at one of the properties. Price reported none of this income on his tax returns.

313. Nealy and Price concealed Nealy's bribery payments in the same manner that Price and Fain hid Price's MMS income: (1) Nealy endorsed and diverted third-party checks to Price; (2) Price or Nealy split the deposits of third-party checks between Nealy's and Price's accounts; and (3) Price took cash back from deposits into Nealy's accounts. Nealy also wrote checks payable to Price's financial institutions and checks payable directly to Price on which she often wrote notations in the memo lines casting the check as something other than income to Price. Additionally, Nealy wrote checks payable to herself, endorsed them, and gave them to Price, which he deposited or cashed at various financial institutions, and Nealy transferred money from her accounts to Price's accounts.

C. LAND PURCHASES

314. Nealy and Fain helped Price conceal income, assets, and expenditures from the IRS by having parcels of real property titled in Nealy's and Fain's names. Specifically, as described in Count 1 of this indictment, realleged and incorporated herein by reference, Nealy paid for, and acted as the nominee owner of, four parcels of real property that actually belonged to Price. Price did not report on his tax returns any amounts that Nealy paid for the purchases, property taxes, and insurance for the four properties.

315. Fain served as nominee purchaser and owner of three additional parcels of real property for Price to conceal and disguise his ownership and receipt of income.

D. PRICELESS COLLECTION AND BUSINESS M

316. Price earned at least $50,000 from selling African art from his residence, at Business T, and at Business M, where he maintained inventory on a consignment basis, including art that he named and advertised as the "John Wiley Priceless Collection" or "Priceless Collection." Price reported none of this income on his tax returns.

317. Price stored art pieces at MMS as well. He filed an assumed name certificate for Priceless Collections in Dallas County, Texas in January 2003, identifying the business as a proprietorship. He paid over $280,000 in cash and wrote at least five checks from his nominee account at City Bank to buy inventory. Price also used campaign funds to buy pieces that he sold through Business M and then deposited the income earned on those sales into his personal accounts.

E. BANKING PRACTICES

318. To facilitate the covert transfers of money from Nealy and Fain, and to conceal the substantial sums of income paid to Price by Nealy, Fain, MMS, and additional sources, Price, Nealy, and Fain opened numerous bank accounts at the same financial institutions. Additionally, Price used his nominee account at City Bank to negotiate payments from Nealy. The financial institutions associated with the defendants included, among others:

a. City Bank in Forney, Texas

F. FALSE AND FRAUDULENT TAX RETURNS

319. Price, Nealy, and Fain each presented false records to the same tax preparer to use in preparing their tax returns for the calendar years 2002 through 2009. These records omitted payments to Price or mischaracterized the payments to Price as for legitimate purposes, such as “loans” or “reimbursement.”

320. Fain did not issue any Forms W-2 or Forms 1099 for income paid to Price by MMS.

321. Nealy did not issue Forms W-2 or Forms 1099 for income paid to Price, except for a single false Form 1099 for the calendar year 2004 that underreported the amount of money Nealy paid Price during that year.

322. Price filed false income tax returns with the Internal Revenue Service for the calendar years 2002 through 2009 from which he omitted bribes and other taxable income that he received during those calendar years.

323. Price filed false Personal Financial Statements for the years 2002 through 2008 and 2010, signed under oath, in which he omitted the above-described sources of income and ownership interests in certain parcels of real property.

The property was one of three that Fain agreed to purchase jointly with W.W. on Price's behalf as a straw purchaser in April 1999 under the business name of JWP (a business known to the Grand Jury). The other two properties were located on Interstate 30 and Fairport Road (the specific locations of which, and of the Grady Niblo property, are known to the Grand Jury).
